Not illustrated. 1882 Excerpt: .During the latter part of last year there was some dullness in shipments, as compared with the previous activity, but this was mainly owing to low freights and the bad weather which retarded the movements of tonnage. The year 1881 closed, however, with a return to something like the old briskness and a general firmness in prices. Not only have large contracts been made for 1882, and remunerative prices, but sellers have been enabled in many cases to bring into successful operation the principle of the sliding scale, thus making the buyers participate in the risks attaching to the wages question, which has given rise to so many deplorable disputes between masters and men in this district. W. WIRT SIKES, Consul. United States Consulate, Cardiff, Wales, February 10, 1882. TRADE AND NAVIGATION OF FALMOUTH. REPORT OF OOXSUL FOX. In my last annual report I was enabled to report that some improvement had taken place in the financial condition and prospects of the mining industries of Cornwall, and owing to the further advance that has taken place in the value of tin, the chief article of mining produce, the tin mines of the country may now be described as being in a fairly prosperous condition. The returns of the produce of the mines of Great Britain are not made up to September 30. I am, therefore, unable to supply the information derivable therefrom for the year ending on that day. Tin ores.--The quantity of tin ores raised...
