Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Taxation and the Distribution of Wealth Among the more important questions confronting the twentieth century are those dealing with the distribution of wealth. The systems of taxation upon which national administrations are based, are important factors in this connexion. The relation of these systems to the general process of the production and distribution of wealth is here reviewed. The subject naturally falls into several fields. A government may seek, through the taxing powers under its control, to develop or protect the industrial life of the society it administers. It may limit their use to purely fiscal objects; and again, use them in order to further the various political interests of the social organization: actually and in relation to other societies. The system of industrial Protection, or the attempt to develop the productive capacity of a society through the use of the Tariff, and other forms of administrative assistance, is discussed in Part I. Part II is devoted to the examination of different methods of supplying social financial needs. Among other policies reviewed is that of basing social fiscal demands, so far as possible, upon the annual wealth created by the society as a whole, in the form of the values represented by its unimproved land area. For reasons developed, this policy seems worthy detailed examination. Part III presents such examination. It is impossible to discuss national financial methods in their wider application, without meeting political and social questions leading into fields not limited by economic inquiry. The relation of national fiscal policies to the intellectual life of a people is important. The dominant conceptions of progress affect the means through which a nation meets the...
